ART THERAPY

Art Therapy Association of Colorado

<http://www.arttherapycolorado.org/>

The Art Therapy Association of Colorado, an affiliate of American Art Therapy Association, develops awareness of the practice and profession of art therapy throughout Colorado, maintains and improves standards of practice, and provides resources for its members and the general public.

The practice of Art Therapy requires a minimum of a Master's degree from an accredited art therapy graduate program; two years of post-graduate supervision resulting in the ATR credentials (Registered Art Therapist).

Because the educational requirements and post graduate training of art therapists is commensurate with social workers and professional counselors, Art Therapists are eligible to become Licensed Professional Counselors in many states, including Colorado.

PLAY THERAPY

APT defines play therapy as "the systematic use of a theoretical model to establish an interpersonal process wherein trained play therapists use the therapeutic powers of play to help clients prevent or resolve psychosocial difficulties and achieve optimal growth and development." Play Therapy can be used to express feelings when children are at a place developmentally where they cannot verbalize emotion in a cognitive/spoken fashion.
